Please help us raise awareness of cardiac arrhythmia disorders in children and young adults.

The night of February 27, 2010, will be an evening to remember with live music, magic, silent auction items, great food, and dancing. This event benefits children and their hearts.

Please join us for the final Starry Night Gala. With three other children keeping us busy we expect this to be our last Gala - help us go out with a bang

Brianna Badger Foundation

The Brianna Badger Foundation was organized in memory of our daughter who died in 2006 from Long QT Syndrome (LQTS), a cardiac arrhythmia three times more common in the U.S. than childhood leukemia. The Brianna Badger Foundation's mission is to increase awareness of the warning signs of heart rhythm abnormalities among pediatricians, school nurses, and day cares throughout Colorado.

Each month in the United States, hundreds of young people like Brianna die suddenly and unexpectedly due to cardiac arrhythmias. LQTS is just one of many cardiac arrhythmias that can cause sudden death in children and young adults, most of which are identifiable and treatable. As many as 12 in every 5,000 young people may have an arrhythmia that can cause sudden death. Additionally, researchers have been investigating a possible link between SIDS, SUDC and long QT syndrome and have discovered that approximately 10 to 15 percent of SIDS cases studied had LQTS.

With your support to date, the Brianna Badger Foundation has donated $75,000 to the American Heart Association and the SADS Foundation combined.
